...Looking vs. Buying...

We expect no man who enters our store to buy until he is thoroughly convinced that we have more quality and better value to offer than he can obtain elsewhere.

We boast of courteous salesmen who are at all times prepared to show lookers through our splendid stock of men's and young men's apparel.

We therefore issue an invitation to all to call and look over our Spring and Summer showing of Hart, Schaffner & Marx, and B. Kuppenheimer & Co's clothing. You'll not find its equal at like prices elsewhere.

ELK'S RED LETTER WEEK.

Port Huron Will Take Care of the Antlered Herd June 3, 4 and 5
Thousands of Elks from every part of Michigan will gather in Port Huron on June 3, 4 and 5, when the ninth annual convention of the Michigan Elks will be held. Port Huron is making great preparations to care for its visitors on those days and if anybody misses having a good time it will be his own fault. The governor, Hon. Woodbridge N. Ferris, is going to be there to address the antlered herd and the handsome new temple will be dedicated by Grand Exalted Ruler Thomas B. Mills, of Superior, Wis. An oration will be delivered by Hon. John J. Lentz, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Wednesday, June 4, is going to be the big day. There will be a parade in which scores of bands will participate and visiting lodges will give exhibition drills. Automobiles will join in the cavalcade, making it the biggest event of its kind ever held in Eastern Michigan. Arrangements are being made to take care of all visitors and, whether they are Elks or not, will make no difference with the entertainment committees. Port Huron is going to do herself proud and makes these gala days long to be remembered.

Memorial Day.
At 10:30 last Sunday morning the old soldiers, few in number now, marched from their quarters to the Disciple Church, headed by the Boy Scouts. Two large flags waved over their heads as they passed along. At the front of the church the Scouts opened ranks and allowed the veterans to pass between them into the building where they were given seats of honor.

The platform and altar were prettily decorated with plants and flowers, and flags and pictures adorned the walls. A large audience had gathered out of respect to the old soldiers and to listen to a fine and appropriate address from Rev. Charles, pastor. His eulogy to the heroes of the war was admirable and pleasing. Thus another Memorial Day has passed and it is hoped that not one of the G. A. R.'s will be missing when May 30th comes round again.

SHOT BY GRANDSON

Little Fellow was Playing with Shot Gun when it Exploded. Full Charge Entering Breast and Shoulder of Mrs. Lemuel Brown.

A terrible and shocking accident occurred at the farm home of Mrs. Lemuel Brown, two miles south of Yale, late Tuesday afternoon, which filled the hearts of the people of the community with consternation and alarm.

Mrs. Brown had been working in a shed at the rear of the house and her five-year-old grandson picked up a shot gun, known to be loaded, but as it had been tried several times to be discharged, it was thought that it wouldn't work, and was considered harmless.

Mrs. Brown was not alarmed when the lad aimed the gun at her but immediately it was discharged, the shot splintering her right shoulder and breast.

Help was quickly sent for and the poor woman received every attention possible, making heroic efforts herself to throw off the shock, but the enormous loss of blood so weakened her that it was impossible to rally and she died Wednesday night.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2:00 o'clock p. m. from the home. Burial next week.

OBITUARY.

Be still prepared for death and death or life shall thereby be the sweeter.—Shakespeare.

Mrs. Margaret Herrold died at the home of her son Robert, on Mary-st., Yale, Sunday, May 25th, at the ripe old age of 87 years.

The funeral services were held in the M. E. church on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. with Elder Lester Clark officiating. Interment in Elmwood cemetery.

Mrs. Herrold was a native of Scotland but had been in this country many years and lived in this vicinity twenty years or more.

Two sons and four daughters survive her: Robert, of Yale, Ephraim, of Toronto, Sarah Jane, of Glencoe, Mrs. Joe Duval, of Lumb, Mrs. Rus Secord, and Mrs. George Wilcox, of Yale.

Frank Parker died at his farm home, one and a half miles southeast of Avoca on Friday, May 23, 1913, at the age of 59 years, 11 months and 5 days, cause uremic poisoning.

Deceased was born near Memphis in Macomb county, June 19, 1853, and when one year old he moved with his parents to a farm in Speaker township where he resided until about 12 years ago when he moved to the farm where he died. A widow, seven daughters and one son, also three brothers, Charles of Port Huron, George and Sidney of Speaker township, one sister Mrs. John Nesbitt of Marquette, besides a host of relatives and friends are left to mourn his loss.

The relatives wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who were so kind and did so much during the sickness and after the death of a loving husband a kind father and brother.

The body of Mrs. Joseph Guillat was brought to Yale from Marlette Monday morning and taken directly to the Brick chapel, where services were conducted by Elder Kitley, of the Mennonite church. Interment was made in Moore cemetery.

Memorial Poem.

Composed by Mrs. L. J. Spencer, of Yale, Mich. A tribute to the dead and living soldiers of '61 and '65. The seasons in their ceaseless roll have brought to us once more this 30th of May, this day that ushers in the summer, when all nature seems to rejoice and has put on her bright garments and the earth is bursting with vegetation. How fitting is this day for the interchange of thought between every lover of the old flag. Union loving soldiers and citizens are today, all over our land strewn with flowers the graves of those never to be forgotten heroes, who fought and bled and died that we might still boast a union of states. Therefore—

For our dead, our sleeping heroes
Bring we sweetest flowers today,
Bowling heads and hushing voices
O'er their treasured, sainted clay.
Ah, we know how much we owe them,
Boys in blue and those in white,
You, whose cheek the hue of health wears,
Ye, whose souls have found the light.

When God's fair sun shines upon us,
When our earth is all aglow,
Love of country burns within us,
Then, we know what 'tis we owe.
Then we know that brothers, banded
Against brothers, held fierce sway,
Then we know, you save our country,
'Tis for this, we meet today.

'Tis for this, we bring our offerings,
'Tis for this, we mourn you here,
'Tis for this we strew bright flowers
Where you sleep, in death, so dear.
Sleep, ye brave, our people's voices
Rise in thankful songs to you,
Strew your grave with perfumed garlands,
Honoring thus the brave and true.

Far away from homes and kindred,
Some, there sleep with unmarked graves,
With no hand to strew the flowers.
All alone, there sleep the brave,
With the chains of slavery broken,
Rebellion crushed forever more,
With the rights of man unshaken
For all this, we owe you more.

O'er the storm-tossed ocean, safely
Rides our "ship of state" today,
With a statesman as commander,
All serene, she sails away.
"Ponder on earth, good will to men,"
Soldiers, resting in their graves
Sure can hear these words in requiem,
O'er the land they died to save.

Ah, the fairest land e'er given
As a heritage below
Treasured land, where floats our emblem,
Stars and stripes, red, white and blue.
Bowling heads and hushing voices
As we deck your graves with flowers.
All on earth, in heaven, rejoices,
Ye brave boys, in death, still ours.
